

Emily Longnecker Biography

Emily is a 7 time Emmy Award Winner for her work as a journalist at WTHR-TV where she's worked since 2007.

She's also been recognized for her stories by the Indiana Chapter of The Society of Professional Journalists, the Indiana Broadcasters Association and The Associated Press Broadcasters Associations of Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Before coming to Indianapolis, Emily reported at stations in Ohio, Pennsylvania and upstate New York.

Emily's featured in the book "Women Journalists at Ground Zero" for her reporting on the Crash of Flight 93 on September 11th.

Her work has also appeared on A & E's "The First 48" and Investigation Discovery's series, "The Shift."

Emily holds a Masters Degree in Public Policy and Broadcast Journalism from The American University in Washington, DC.

Emily also has a Bachelors Degree in English and French from Allegheny College in Meadville, PA.

In her free time, Emily enjoys running half marathons, paddle-boarding and kayaking at Eagle Creek, reading and visiting Mom and Pop restaurants with her friends.

Emily was born and raised in Bradford, Pennsylvania, but after more than a decade in the Circle City, she now considers Indianapolis her second home.
